SENATOR ELECT-WARE WINS FIRST SKIRMISH IN FIGHT FOR SEAT

SENATE ELECTIONS COM- MITTEE VOTES TO DISMISS WILSON'S CONTEST

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 26.—The Senate elections committee was suddenly called into session today to reconsider its decision of yesterday in throwing out the petition of William B. Wilson for a recount in the last Pennsylvania Senatorial election.

The committee call for a session late today was issued just as the Senate was listening to a plea by Reed of Missouri, chairman of the slush fund committee which investigated the campaign expenditures of the successful candidate, William S. Vare, that the elections committee's action of yesterday be overridden by the Senate itself.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Senator-elect Vare of Pennsylvania has won one skirmish in the double campaign being waged against him and his senate seat but there was no certainty today that the victory would be long lived.

Immediately after the Senate elections committee voted late yesterday to dismiss the contest petition of William B. Wilson, Vare's Democratic opponent for the office, Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, made ready to ask the Senate to override the committee and direct it to entertain Wilson's contest.

Reed, chairman of the slush fund committee that disclosed large expenditures in Vare's campaign, proposed to have the Senate order the elections committee to proceed at once with the counting of ballots in six Pennsylvania counties where Wilson has charged conspiracy existed against him.

He was confident that the committee vote 8 to 6 on party lines, that dismissed Wilson's petition for lack of particulars would be overthrown by the Senate because it already has recognized the Democratic candidate's contest.

Pending settlement of that issue, Wilson has 25 days granted him by the committee in which to file his amended complaint.

Wilson's case against Vare is ~~separate from~~ Chairman Reed's challenge of Vare's credentials. The latter contest still is with Reed's committee, which will make further inquiry of both primary and general election campaign expenditures.

Walsh Resolution Under Senate Fire

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Under the fire of further opposition to his resolution recommending a Congressional investigation of public utilities, Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, today offered to withdraw the amendment he had proposed limiting the authority granted in the original resolution.

The amendment would limit the inquiry to interstate companies and large holding companies with interests in State corporations.

Senator Walsh, nevertheless, urged a favorable report of the resolution by the Interstate Commerce Committee now considering it on the ground that the concentration of the public utilities industry is rapidly growing and that the lack of State control over the big holding companies "constitutes a real defect."

"I had hoped to be in a position to present everything that is good in this movement as well as its dangers," he said, "but I have been forced to assume the role of a prosecutor because of the presence of a lobby opposing this investigation which is of such magnitude as I believe has never before been seen in Washington."

Presenting the concluding arguments of opponents to the resolution, Wm. D. B. Almy, chairman of the public service commission of Pennsylvania, said today that not only would the proposed investigation be an abuse of power by Congress, but it would be regarded by State commissions as invading their rights.

WOULD LOAN STATES MONEY STOP FLOODS?

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Faced with the plea that the Mississippi Valley states are unable to help pay for a comprehensive flood control program, Secretary Davis of the War Department today advised Congress to authorize the loaning of Federal funds to the states so they can contribute 20 per cent of the cost of the administration's flood control plan.

Appearing before the House Flood Control Committee today, the War Secretary said that by these loans the states could meet their contributions and "the flood control work could be effectively done."

He said he considered the flood control problem a grave national responsibility.

A subordinate of the secretary, Major General Edgar J. Jadwin, chief of army engineers, was dismissed from the committee stand

CLOSING ARGUMENTS START THURSDAY IN TRIAL OF RATLIFF

OBJECTION TO CHARGE TO JURY VOICED BY COUNSEL FOR ALLEGED ROBBER

By Associated Press.

Eastland, Texas, Jan. 26.—Closing arguments were to start today in the trial of Marshall Ratliff, charged with robbery by firearms in connection with the holdup of the First National Bank of Cisco, last Dec. 23, after another delay occasioned by a defense objection to the charge to the jury as prepared by District Judge G. L. Davenport.

The charge, prepared after five hours of labor yesterday, did not include several points they believed to be of vital importance to their case, defense counsel said in their objection. Judge Davenport revamped the charge, and was to present it to the jury early today.

The charge was not lengthy. It included the usual "reasonable doubt" warning, and a portion of it read: "I further charge you in this case that Marshall Ratliff alone is on trial, and in this connection you are further charged that the said Marshall Ratliff cannot be held responsible for the unlawful acts of any other person or persons unless you believe from the evidence beyond a reasonable doubt that he, the said Marshall Ratliff, was present with such other person or persons and knowing of their unlawful intent to commit the offense."

Arguments, in which the defense was to declare the State had failed to identify Ratliff in the holdup, were expected to be limited to three hours to each side.

Since the discovery yesterday of an iron bar in the prison where Ratliff and his two alleged co-conspirators, Henry Helms and Robert Hill, are kept, closer watch is being kept on the prisoners.

ACTIVE CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED OVERNIGHT FOR SENATOR REED

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Political foundation-building goes on apace here in preparation for what promises to be a memorable presidential campaign year. Construction efforts are on the ground in increasing numbers, designing structures that first must withstand the summer tempests of party conventions before encountering the November tide of ballots.

The first of these stood almost full grown today, mushrooming out over night, complete to the proverbial lightning rod. It flew the Democratic standard of Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, erected not by his own hand but with his "full knowledge and consent."

Reed's campaign headquarters were opened by Lee Meriwether of St. Louis, who will manage the campaign here, in conjunction with another headquarters at Louisiana, Mo. That one will be managed by Edward A. Glenn, who handled yesterday by Chairman Reid for not answering committee questions.

MEYER NOMINATION FAVORED.

Washington, Jan. 26.—A favorable report on the nomination of Eugene Meyer as chairman of the Federal Farm Loan Board was ordered today by the Senate Banking Committee.

After a sharp fight, the committee also ordered favorable reports on the nominations of George R. Cooksey and Floyd R. Harrison to be members of the board.

The vote on the three members who constituted the membership of the extinct War Finance Corporation, was ten to four. Senators Brookhart, Republican, Iowa; and Fletcher, Democrat, Florida, who led the fight against them in the committee, gave notice they would oppose the nominations before the Senate.

Others voting against the nominees were Senators Frithier, North Dakota, and Pine, Oklahoma, Republicans.

Many Airplanes Needed by Navy

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, told the House Naval committee today that a total of 750 airplanes would be necessary to equip the five airplane carriers and 25 cruisers included in the 71 ships proposed in the administration's $740,000,000 warship construction program. This number, he said, would be in addition to the 1,000 airplanes provided for in the five year Naval aviation program.

The Admiral explained that the five carriers would accommodate a total of 375 planes; the 25 cruisers, 100 planes; that an additional 50 training planes would be needed, and that 234 planes were necessary as reserve equipment.

MARINE COMMANDER IS WELL PLEASED WITH SITUATION IN NICARAGUA; MORALE IS HIGH

By Associated Press.

Managua, Nic., Jan. 26.—Enormous difficulties confront the American Marines in their campaign to end the revolt of General Augustino Sandino but they will be overcome, Major-General John A. Lejeune, commanding the United States Marine Corps, believes.

General Lejeune returned here yesterday by airplane from the scene of the recent fighting in Nueva Segovia. He apparently was well pleased with the progress the Marines had made.

"I was never prouder of any body I ever met or have ever known," he said. "Every American who is proud of being an American, should be proud of the American Marines in Nicaragua.

"The morale of the Marines is high. There is no discontent. There are no complaints.

"The boys are well liked by the Nicaraguans. At every place I visited, Nicaraguans greeted me cordially. All professed the greatest appreciation of what the United States is doing for them. "I would rather see Sandino captured than killed. I hope he will voluntarily stop his fighting."

"Our object," he continued, "is to pacify Nicaragua and it will be done."

Champ Clark's 1912 campaign for the nomination.

Political Campsite.

Thus Reed's headquarters in the Washington Hotel, takes a central position in a political campsite where other plots have been marked off for prospective or announced entries in the quadrennial White House handicap.

For his neighbors Reed may expect Gov. Smith of New York, Gov. Ritchie of Maryland, Secretary Hoover, Vice President Dawes, Senator Curtis of Kansas, Senator Willis of Ohio, former Gov. Lowden of Illinois, and many others.

If the opinion of Senator Blease, Democrat, South Carolina, is widely shared, another camp might be pitched to straddle the party line. He told the Senate yesterday that a good ticket would be formed by the Republicans of Idaho, for president, and Overman, Democrat, of North Carolina, for vice president.

These men he described as "two great Democrats," and he then proposed to the Republicans that they unite on Calvin Coolidge's team if Coolidge were re-elected. If Coolidge were re-elected, Reed takes First Rank.

With establishment of headquarters, Reed's candidacy takes first front prominence in the pre-convention campaign. His organization, however, is no more complete or far-reaching than the less visible machines of some other candidates who are active themselves or whose friends are working for them. Supporters of Governor Smith are reported to be extremely active throughout the country perfecting an organization, as are those of Secretary Hoover.

Dawes has no known organization behind him although his name holds its own in discussion of presidential candidates. Senator Curtis is not saying much about his campaign but there are indications that the Kansan is pushing his efforts in several states, and that he has a headquarters of 650 feet.

AGED INMATE OLD FOLKS HOME PASSED AWAY LAST NIGHT

By Associated Press.

Dallas, Texas, Jan. 26.—J. H. Dowdy, former park policeman, was acquitted last night of the murder of Ruphard "Jack" Daniels in a park here. His plea was that Daniels was killed accidentally last fall as he was drawing his pistol to fire into the air when Daniels ran after being arrested for gathering pecans.

RANGER AND TWO OTHERS CHARGED IN INTOXICATION CASE

MEN ALLEGED HAVE BEEN ATTEMPTING TO ENFORCE PROHIBITION LAW

By Associated Press.

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 26.—Three peace officers, one a Ranger and another a constable, who tried to enforce prohibition, were jailed for drunkenness and disturbance of the peace here early today.

The Ranger, after clearing an all night cafe of policeman went to police headquarters where he was arrested as he heaped verbal abuse on the department. A county deputy was arrested for intoxication after his auto had struck another car and a constable was arrested when he sought to arrest a friend.

The two had consumed the friend's liquor and the constable set out to take the friend to jail. He ran into a policeman who arrested both.

SALVATION SLOGANS.

The voice of one crying in the wilderness uttered a slogan that echoed up and down the Judean hills something over nineteen hundred years ago and He of whom that voice was a forerunner and His disciples added to that many other slogans, which have come down all the years and served their purpose to the benefit of all mankind. Moderns cannot improve on their message or the effectiveness of their call. The clergyman who announces his opinion that religion needs to be "sold" to the world in the same manner that communities are urged to buy soap or cigarettes or motor cars and that what the church needs today is a slogan to attract attention to it, seems to have missed the inspiration of his calling.

It is not difficult to get people into church. Any one of the many devices of sensationalism will accomplish that. It is what they get after they are in that keeps them there. Meretricious tricks, theatricalism, will not do it. They must be kept there as were those who "came to scoff and remained to pray." They must be persuaded that the Word of God is the way to salvation; they must be given faith. Without faith crowds of people thronging into a church are but proof of curiosity stimulated by a hope of being thrilled or entertained.

Religion never was and never can be made more attractive than by its simple story that is ages old and new in every experience.

LOOK OUT FOR ABNORMALS.

Every child must go to school at an early age.

Every child, as soon as he goes to school, should be examined by some person qualified to detect abnormalities. The tests for these abnormalities are comparatively simple. Every school teacher should be required to know how to conduct them.

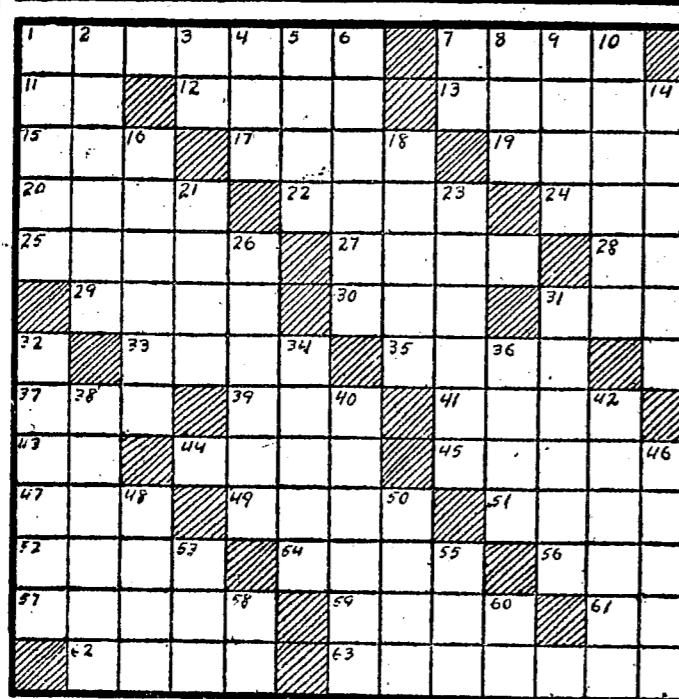

In this state much is done in that way. But after the defective are found little can be done about them. Texas as in every other state is treating its cases of maladjustment under laws not differing from the concepts of social treatment collated by Blackstone, when there was no such thing as social science. There was altruism and humanitarianism in some instances, but no social science of social usage. To be sure, we have our parole and probation agencies, reformatories, our insane asylums, but these, after all, only deal with those whose maladjustments have resulted in anti-social acts.

If the state had the means to rear deficient children humanely, but in such manner that they could not harm society, there would be few, if any, such horrors as the slaying of little Marion Parker, of Los Angeles, and Dorothy Schneller, of Flint, Mich. The men who did these deeds, according to the weight of authority, had the potentiality to commit them in their childhood, a potentiality that a trained observer could have detected. If this is so, the direct road to the prevention of such unnatural atrocities undoubtedly lies before every civilized community.

Every child must go to school at an early age.

Every child, as soon as he goes to school, should be examined by some person qualified to detect abnormalities. The tests for these abnormalities are comparatively simple. Every school teacher should be required to know how to conduct them.

In this state much is done in that way. But after the defective are found little can be done about them. Texas as in every other state is treating its cases of maladjustment under laws not differing from the concepts of social treatment collated by Blackstone, when there was no such thing as social science. There was altruism and humanitarianism in some instances, but no social science of social usage. To be sure, we have our parole and probation agencies, reformatories, our insane asylums, but these, after all, only deal with those whose maladjustments have resulted in anti-social acts.

If the state had the means to rear deficient children humanely, but in such manner that they could not harm society, there would be few, if any, such horrors as the slaying of little Marion Parker, of Los Angeles, and Dorothy Schneller, of Flint, Mich. The men who did these deeds, according to the weight of authority, had the potentiality to commit them in their childhood, a potentiality that a trained observer could have detected. If this is so, the direct road to the prevention of such unnatural atrocities undoubtedly lies before every civilized community.

A deliver into such matters says there are only seven original jokes, the first of which unquestionably is "I am through with life forever."

The citizen holding a poll tax receipt will be very popular this summer. It is election year and every office from constable to president of the United States is to be filled. Without a poll tax receipt you cannot participate in political events. The democratic convention will be held at

The Epic of the Air

CHAPTER XV.

One day during the beginning of our term at Kelly, someone decided that the cadets should stand Reveille. How it came about or who caused the decision was never known by the detachment, but there was a strong rumor circulated to the effect that our beloved Cadet Sergeant had not forgotten the episode of the polecats. It was an unheard of thing for the cadets of Kelly to stand formations. We had graduated from that when we left Brooks, and the thought of continuing it in our advanced status was, we concluded, degenerating to the morale of the detachment.

Consequently, when our first sergeant himself delighted us with verbal visions of being tumbled out of bed at first call if we were not up at the blast of his whistle, we decided that if it were in the combined power of the detachment, the first call should not sound the next morning. We could not disobey an order; army training banishes even the remotest thought of that; but we might prevent that order from being given. The Cadet Captain and first sergeant were assigned to a private room together. The rest of us were given cots in the barracks. While supper was in progress that night the hands on the sergeant's alarm clock were so manipulated that the alarm would sound exactly one hour after the time set. At two o'clock the next morning a padlock was placed on the bars outside of his door, and when first call blew a few hours later the cadet detachment slept soundly on.

From spot landings we passed to hurdles. Hurdles require the ship to be brought down without assistance from the engine, and after just passing over a line stretched about eight feet above the ground, to be landed as close as possible to the hurdle. This gave us excellent practice for landing over a fence in a small field.

One of the traditions at Kelly was that anyone knocking down the hurdle must treat the rest to a case of refreshments. It often happened that a pilot was so intent on getting over the hurdle string that he did not notice that his plane was in a stall, and about the time he was over the hurdle the bottom would fall out from under him and his plane would pancake into the ground. Almost every class had one or two minor crack-ups as a result of stalling over the hurdle string.

The De Havillands were not considered safe for hard stunting and as a result we were only allowed to do wing-overs and split air turns. Diving in excess of one hundred and fifty miles per hour was also forbidden. Consequently only air work allowing us to be thoroughly accustomed to the plane was included in the flying schedule before our formation training began.

The strange field landing training was one of the most interesting parts of our schooling. An instructor would lead a number of planes and land in some field we had never seen before. Then each cadet was required to land and take off after the instructor. Some of the fields were small and full of obstructions. Yet we had in each of the various types of comparatively few even minor service airplane. The M. B. 3 and the S.E. 5 scouts; the Martin bombers with their twin Liberty engines; the T.W. two-place transition planes, and the little Sperry messengers. In this way we obtained experience in each branch: pursuit, attack, observation and bombardment. Later we were given our choice of which we desired to specialize. In fact our wishes corresponded with the judgment of the instructors, we were assigned to that branch.

Each class spent about two weeks on a gunnery expedition at Ellington Field between Houston and Galveston. Ellington Field was one of the few double fields built during the war, but was later abandoned and, except for a National Guard squadron, was entirely deserted.

We set up our mess in the clubhouse and made the old building pursuit pilot is often called upon to make observations and do light bombing.

This was in Winter and the weather was cold, even in Texas, unusual though it might have been. There were no stoves available, so we contrived all sorts of makeshifts to hold a little fire. If nothing better was obtainable, we shoveled several inches of earth on the floor and devised a hood of some kind leading through a few lengths of the pipe to the chimney. Of course these fires could not be left unguarded, so it was necessary to put them out in the morning to be rekindled at the close of operations for the day.

Our gunnery work was divided into three parts; ground targets, shadow targets and tow targets.

The ground targets were large sheets of paper similar to those used on a rifle range and were set up at an angle on the ground. We shot at these with both the Browning and Lewis machine guns.

The Browning guns on a De Havilland were mounted rigidly in front of the pilot and were synchronized with the engine to shoot between the blades of the propeller. They were capable of firing up to twelve hundred rounds a minute, depending on the motor R.P.M. when they were fired.

Several of us would form a large circle with our planes, and starting our dive from about one thousand feet, would fire short bursts into the target on the ground.

After completing our bursts we would zoom back up into the circle while the next ship started its dive. Each plane had its individual target.

After emptying the Browning guns we gave our observers a chance with their Lewis guns by circling low around the targets. On the next flight the pilot and observer traded places.

The Lewis gun is mounted on a turret on the rear cockpit. Two guns were usually used together and they could be pointed in any direction.

After a few days on ground targets we were sent out over

Trinity Bay for shadow targets.

One plane is flown fairly high over the water, while another flies at its shadow. The splashes from the bullets are easily seen and the accuracy of marksmanship very ap-

CHAPTER XVI.

The tow targets are by far the most difficult of the three varieties and require skillful maneuvering and excellent marksmanship. They consist of a cloth sleeve similar to a wind sock, which is towed a few hundred feet behind a De Havilland flying at sixty or sixty-five miles an hour.

When the forward or Browning guns were used, the attacking ship approached the tow target head-on, firing one to two short bursts as it passed. In this way there was no danger of the occupants of the towed plane being struck by a wild shot. The De Havillands were much too large to use the forward guns effectively on a tow target. Any accurate shooting required the quick maneuverability of a pursuit ship.

The Lewis guns were used while flying parallel with the target and were very effective. When we were close enough we could often see the tracers pass directly through the cloth sleeve.

After returning from Ellington Field we were given a few hours full of obstructions. Yet we had in each of the various types of comparatively few even minor service airplane. The M. B. 3 and the S.E. 5 scouts; the Martin bombers with their twin Liberty engines; the T.W. two-place transition planes, and the little Sperry messengers. In this way we obtained experience in each branch: pursuit, attack, observation and bombardment. Later we were given our choice of which we desired to specialize. In fact our wishes corresponded with the judgment of the instructors, we were assigned to that branch.

Together with three other cadets and four student officers, I was sent to the pursuit stage, where we spent the few remaining weeks of our course, piloting the S.E. 5 and the M.B. 3 single seaters.

Pursuit combined a little of every branch of the air corps. In addition to formation combat, dog fighting and ground strafing, the pursuit pilot is often called upon to make observations and do light bombing.

A great deal of our time was devoted to formation flying. Air maneuvering our flights while the individual planes were less than ten feet apart and it was not unusual to dive vertically for several thousand feet in a fairly close formation.

We learned the use of Lufbery circles, cross over turns, and other formation tactics. Our formations were often tight. It is true, but strange as it may seem, very few accidents occur from too close flying. A pilot is constantly alert when his plane is only a short distance from the one in front and nothing is allowed to distract his attention. On the other hand, when there is quiet some distance separating them he is often more engrossed in lighting a cigarette or watching some object on the ground than in his own formation.

In pursuit flying we came to have great confidence in our parachutes. The planes we were flying were kept in excellent condition and none ever failed, notwithstanding the fact that we placed them under every conceivable strain imaginable. But the knowledge that we did not have to concern ourselves about whether they did fall apart or not was an invaluable factor in building up our morale. Our formations were tighter, the combats faster, and our flying better as a result.

We had a number of close calls, but considering the amount of flying we had done, and that all of it was military flying, which cannot be ever compared with commercial traffic, as far as safety is concerned, our accidents were remarkably few and none resulted seriously.

No one knows of the risk he takes better than the pursuit pilot, and no one is less concerned about it. Every move, although at lightning speed, is made with a coolness born of experience and love of flying. The Army Air Corps is built up of men who fly for the love of flying. Their only mission in life is to build up the finest air corps in the world, and their greatest desire is to be given the opportunity to do so without restriction. If an officer is lost in duty he would be the last one to wish for resulting restrictions on his comrades.

A week of our pursuit training was kept on a gunnery expedition at Galveston. We flew there from pursuit planes, but, as it was, extra clothing was a scarce article, and when we took off for San Antonio, and Kelly the following morning, it was necessary for him to send his wet clothes back in a De Havilland and make his flight in a bearskin flying suit without insulation against the bearskin.

CHAPTER XVII.

In warm weather these suits acquired an odor similar to that of a goat which has been in the Marsh all Winter and the fur itself was far from comfortable. On the trip back a piston froze in the engine. For two days the cadet was alternately roasting in the Texas nights while he guarded his ship and waited for a new engine.

After our return from Galveston while we were practicing formation attack on two-seaters, I experienced one of the incidents of the military pilot's life. I made my first emergency parachute jump.

When an Army plane crashes the pilot is required to write a detailed report of the crash. My account was as follows:

"A nine ship S.E. 5 formation, commanded by Lieutenant Blackburn, was attacking a DH 4B, flown by Lieutenant Maughan at about a 5,000 foot altitude, and several hundred feet above the clouds. I was flying on the left of the top unit, Lieutenant McAllister on my right, and Cadet Love leading. When we nosed down on the DH, I attacked from the left and Lieutenant McAllister from the right. After Cadet Love pulled up, I continued to dive on the DH for a short time before pulling up to the left. I saw no other ship.

"I saw Lieutenant McAllister locating a landing place. I was over mesquite and drifting in the general direction of a plowed field which I reached by slipping the chute. Shortly before striking the ground, I was drifting backwards, but was able to swing around in the harness just as I landed on the ground, I was too great for me to remain standing. I was not injured in any way. The parachute was still held open by the wind, and did not collapse until I pulled in one group of shroud lines.

"During my descent I lost my goggles, a vest pocket camera which fitted tightly in my hip less for an instant. I closed the throttle and saw an S.E. 5 with its top cover off.

"The plane broke formation and arched around us. Every ship within sight proceeded at full speed to the spot and before long the air was full of machines. Several of the De

Havillands landed in the plowing and within half an hour, two planes with extra parachutes were sent to take us back to Kelly. About an hour after the crash we had the wires began whistling. The two new S.E. 5's were back onto the boulder and into the breaching wave.

This incident would not have been serious or its consequences important, had we been able to carry any extra equipment in our chute.

The parachute is a marvelous invention, experimented with as the rubber band safetying the belt, early as the sixteenth century by Leonardo da Vinci.

The first parachute was built by a Frenchman in 1784. This parachute was a rigid structure covered with very strong paper and fabric. It was used in a jump from a building in Paris.

About a year later, the same type of parachute was dropped from a hot air balloon in England. Soon jumps began to be made from balloons with other types of rigid parachutes.

About 1880, Captain Thomas Baldwin made a name for himself by jumping from hot air balloons with a chute which was a forerunner of the present type. He was the first really successful jumper.

During the Summer of 1918, the United States Air Service officials appealed to Washington for good airplane parachutes. A large number of tests were made. Finally after combining all the good points of foreign and American chutes, a satisfactory type of parachute was developed. By far I mean the kind of parachute which is entirely independent of the plane.

Stories often come out in the newspapers about parachutes that fail to open. What probably really happens is that men who make jumps from planes are skilled before they are able to pull the rip cord which opens a parachute. In the past there was always a great deal of danger in testing out a new type of chute, but now they have been developed to such a high degree of efficiency that there are practically no fatalities. Each year the government is repacked every month and tested every six months.

The tax collector's office is open evenings to 6 o'clock in order that working people who quit work at 6 o'clock can register their automobiles and pay other taxes. George W. Boyd, tax collector, stated Tuesday. The office will be open until midnight, Tuesday, Jan. 31 for the payment of all taxes. Feb. 1, a twenty-five percent penalty will be assessed against automobiles. Mr. Boyd urged owners of automobile and trucks to come at once to register their vehicles and avoid the rush. The automobile booth is not crowded at the present time and owners can be waited upon with dispatch now. This is election year and no poll taxes can be issued after Jan. 31. Mr. Boyd stated that indications pointed to about 11,000 poll taxes and exemptions this year.

TICKET HEADED BY SMITH AND JONES IS LATEST POSSIBILITY

By Associated Press.
New York, Jan. 26.—Possibility of a ticket headed by Alfred E. Smith for president and Jesse Jones, of Houston, Texas, for vice-president, was discussed in Democratic circles today.

The boom for Jones as a running mate to New York's governor developed at a beer-steak dinner at the National Democratic Club and followed receipt of word from Governor Dan Moody of Texas that he positively would not be a candidate for either president or vice-president and did not want his name discussed.

Jones is director of finance of the Democratic National Committee and is generally credited with having done more than any other man to get the Democratic National Convention for Houston.

Would Aid Smith.

The Herald-Tribune, Republican, today says that the nomination of Jones would do two things, both essential if Governor Smith is to make a formidable showing in the presidential race this year—it would tip up Texas to Governor Smith, despite the Governor's wretchedness and other alleged disabilities, and it would appeal strongly to the Wilson old guard in the State, as Mr. Jones was a close friend of President Wilson and received a friendly letter from him a week before his death.

Texas Democrats are badly split over the Smith boom. Colonel Thomas B. Love and former Governor Neff, opposing the naming of any one. The honoring of Mr. Jones would go a good way toward mollifying the Wilson wing and the extreme drys and at the same time reward the gentleman whose management captured the Democratic convention against opposition.

Holcombe Refuses to Talk.

Mayor Oscar P. Holcombe, of Houston, who with Jones and Seelye will present their tax receipts for 1926 to the county auditor, who will issue the check. Mr. Tullus stated Monday that the amount to be refunded would approximate about $27,000.

CASH AND STOCK BEING DISTRIBUTED BY GENERAL MOTORS

By Associated Press.
Washington, Jan. 26.—Blocked in its efforts to bring some of its most important witnesses to Washington, the senate oil committee is preparing to reach across the international border in its search for more light on the operations of the Continental Trading Corporation, organized by oil men after the leasing of Teapot Dome.

The committee has decided to ask Vice-President Dawes to appoint a committee to go to Canada and question Henry S. Osler, president of the Continental company, which was incorporated in the Dominion. Such a step was authorized by the Senate several days ago.

Whether the same procedure will be employed in the case of Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana who has refused to return here from Havana immediately to testify, has not been decided. Stewart was one of those who guaranteed a Continental contract.

The committee has decided, however, that it has no other means of reaching Stewart, since a mere Senate subpoena cannot reach foreign soil.

The committee's interest in the Continental company arises from the fact that its profits of about $2,000,000 made almost overnight in purchases and sales of oil were invested in liberty bonds, and that $223,000 worth of these same bonds later were turned over by Harry F. Sinclair, lesser of Teapot Dome, to former Interior Sec.

Albert B. Fall, in exchange for an interest in Fall's new Mexican ranch. The committee wants to know what became of the rest of the $3,000,000.

Osler's deposition was sought by special government oil counsel during the trial of the civil suit for recovery of the Teapot Dome reserve, but he declined to testify on the ground that he could not disclose confidence information given to him as an attorney by his clients.

The Canadian courts ruled since that Osler must testify in a demand by the United States, but it is understood here that ruling does not go to the extent that requiring him to appear in Canada before a senate committee.

FIVE TEXANS ARE AWARDED MEDALS IN ACTS OF HEROISM

SCHOOL BOY AMONG THOSE WHO ARE REWARDED BY CARNEGIE COMMISSION

By Associated Press.
Pittsburgh, Penn., Jan. 26.—Citations issued here today by the Carnegie Hero Commission show five Texans have been awarded bronze medals for heroic attempts at life saving.

Three survived to receive the awards. Two lost their lives in vain attempts to succor companions in dire distress. Four were marked as heroes for saving persons from drowning. The fifth, a school boy, saved a negro from a cave in in a well.

Awards to the living were made to Frank Leon Leggett, 117 Payne street, Houston; Robert V. McMinn, Rural Route 3, Jacksonville, and Graceland S. Salinas, Eagle Pass.

Those who made the supreme sacrifice were Almon L. Lilley, whose widow resides at 201 Virginia Avenue, Waxahachie, and to Charles John Trautwein, Jr., whose father resides at 425 West Twenty-Second street, Houston.

Cases Described.

The commission describes the cases as follows:

Leggett, aged 22, stenographer, saved Amanda and E. Louise Davis from drowning, Sheldon, Texas, July 11, 1926. Leggett, who followed close behind Trautwein and was partly clothed, swam 28 feet from the bank and took hold of Mrs. Davis. She grabbed him, and a struggle followed in which Leggett was submerged at least once. He then swam 16 feet with Mrs. Davis, who held to Louise, to some exposed rocks near a pier. Leggett was fatigued but soon made unsuccessful efforts to find Trautwein's body by diving.

Trautwein, aged 20, plumber's apprentice, died attempting to save Amanda and E. Louise Davis, aged 36 and 56, respectively, from drowning, Sheldon, Texas, July 11, 1926. While wading in the San Jacinto river, Louise stepped from a sandbar into deep water 50 feet from the bank of the river. Her mother went to her aid and both were carried by the current farther from the bank. Trautwein, fully clothed, swam twelve feet from the bank toward them and then went under the surface momentarily. He drifted 20 feet or more and then sank and was drowned. Mrs. Davis and Louise were rescued by another man.

School Boy Hero.
McMinn, aged 15, school boy, saved Leonard Jones (colored) aged 42, well digger, from a cave in in a well, Jacksonville, Texas, January 24, 1925. While Jones was at work in the bottom of a well 41 feet deep, a fall of sand from one side covered him to the top of his shoulders. McMinn, who had never been in a well, descended to Jones and shoveled the sand away from Jones and sent it up to the top in a bucket.

In Memory.

Mrs. Gamble, wife of A. L. Gamble, died at the family residence on Tuesday evening, January 10. She had been ill for a long while.

In mourning are A. L. Gamble, husband, Mrs. Katie Montgomery, Mrs. Ethel Burke, daughters, George and Jim Gamble, sons, and a number of other relatives and a host of friends.

The life of the passer by was as pure as the white dress that folded back from the wrinkled, yet smiling face, even though the body was aching with pains. Hers was the hero of other lives. Nothing was too much for her to do for some one else. She toiled and cared for those she loved, as well as doing deeds of kindness for everyone. As a withered rose she too, faded away.

The stooped form that treaded the tollsome road of life, has faded from our view. It gave all it had to give, And after we've given our best, To this earthly world we are through,

But through unknown darkness the heavenly light Reveals the future place of rest. Friend and Neighbor.

TWO LAKES OF WORLD-HEALING; NEW GENEVA AND OLD GALILEE

Intimate Glimpses Of The Best-Loved Expanse of Water—A Traveller's Tales of the Scenes of the Sensational Successes of the Savior

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

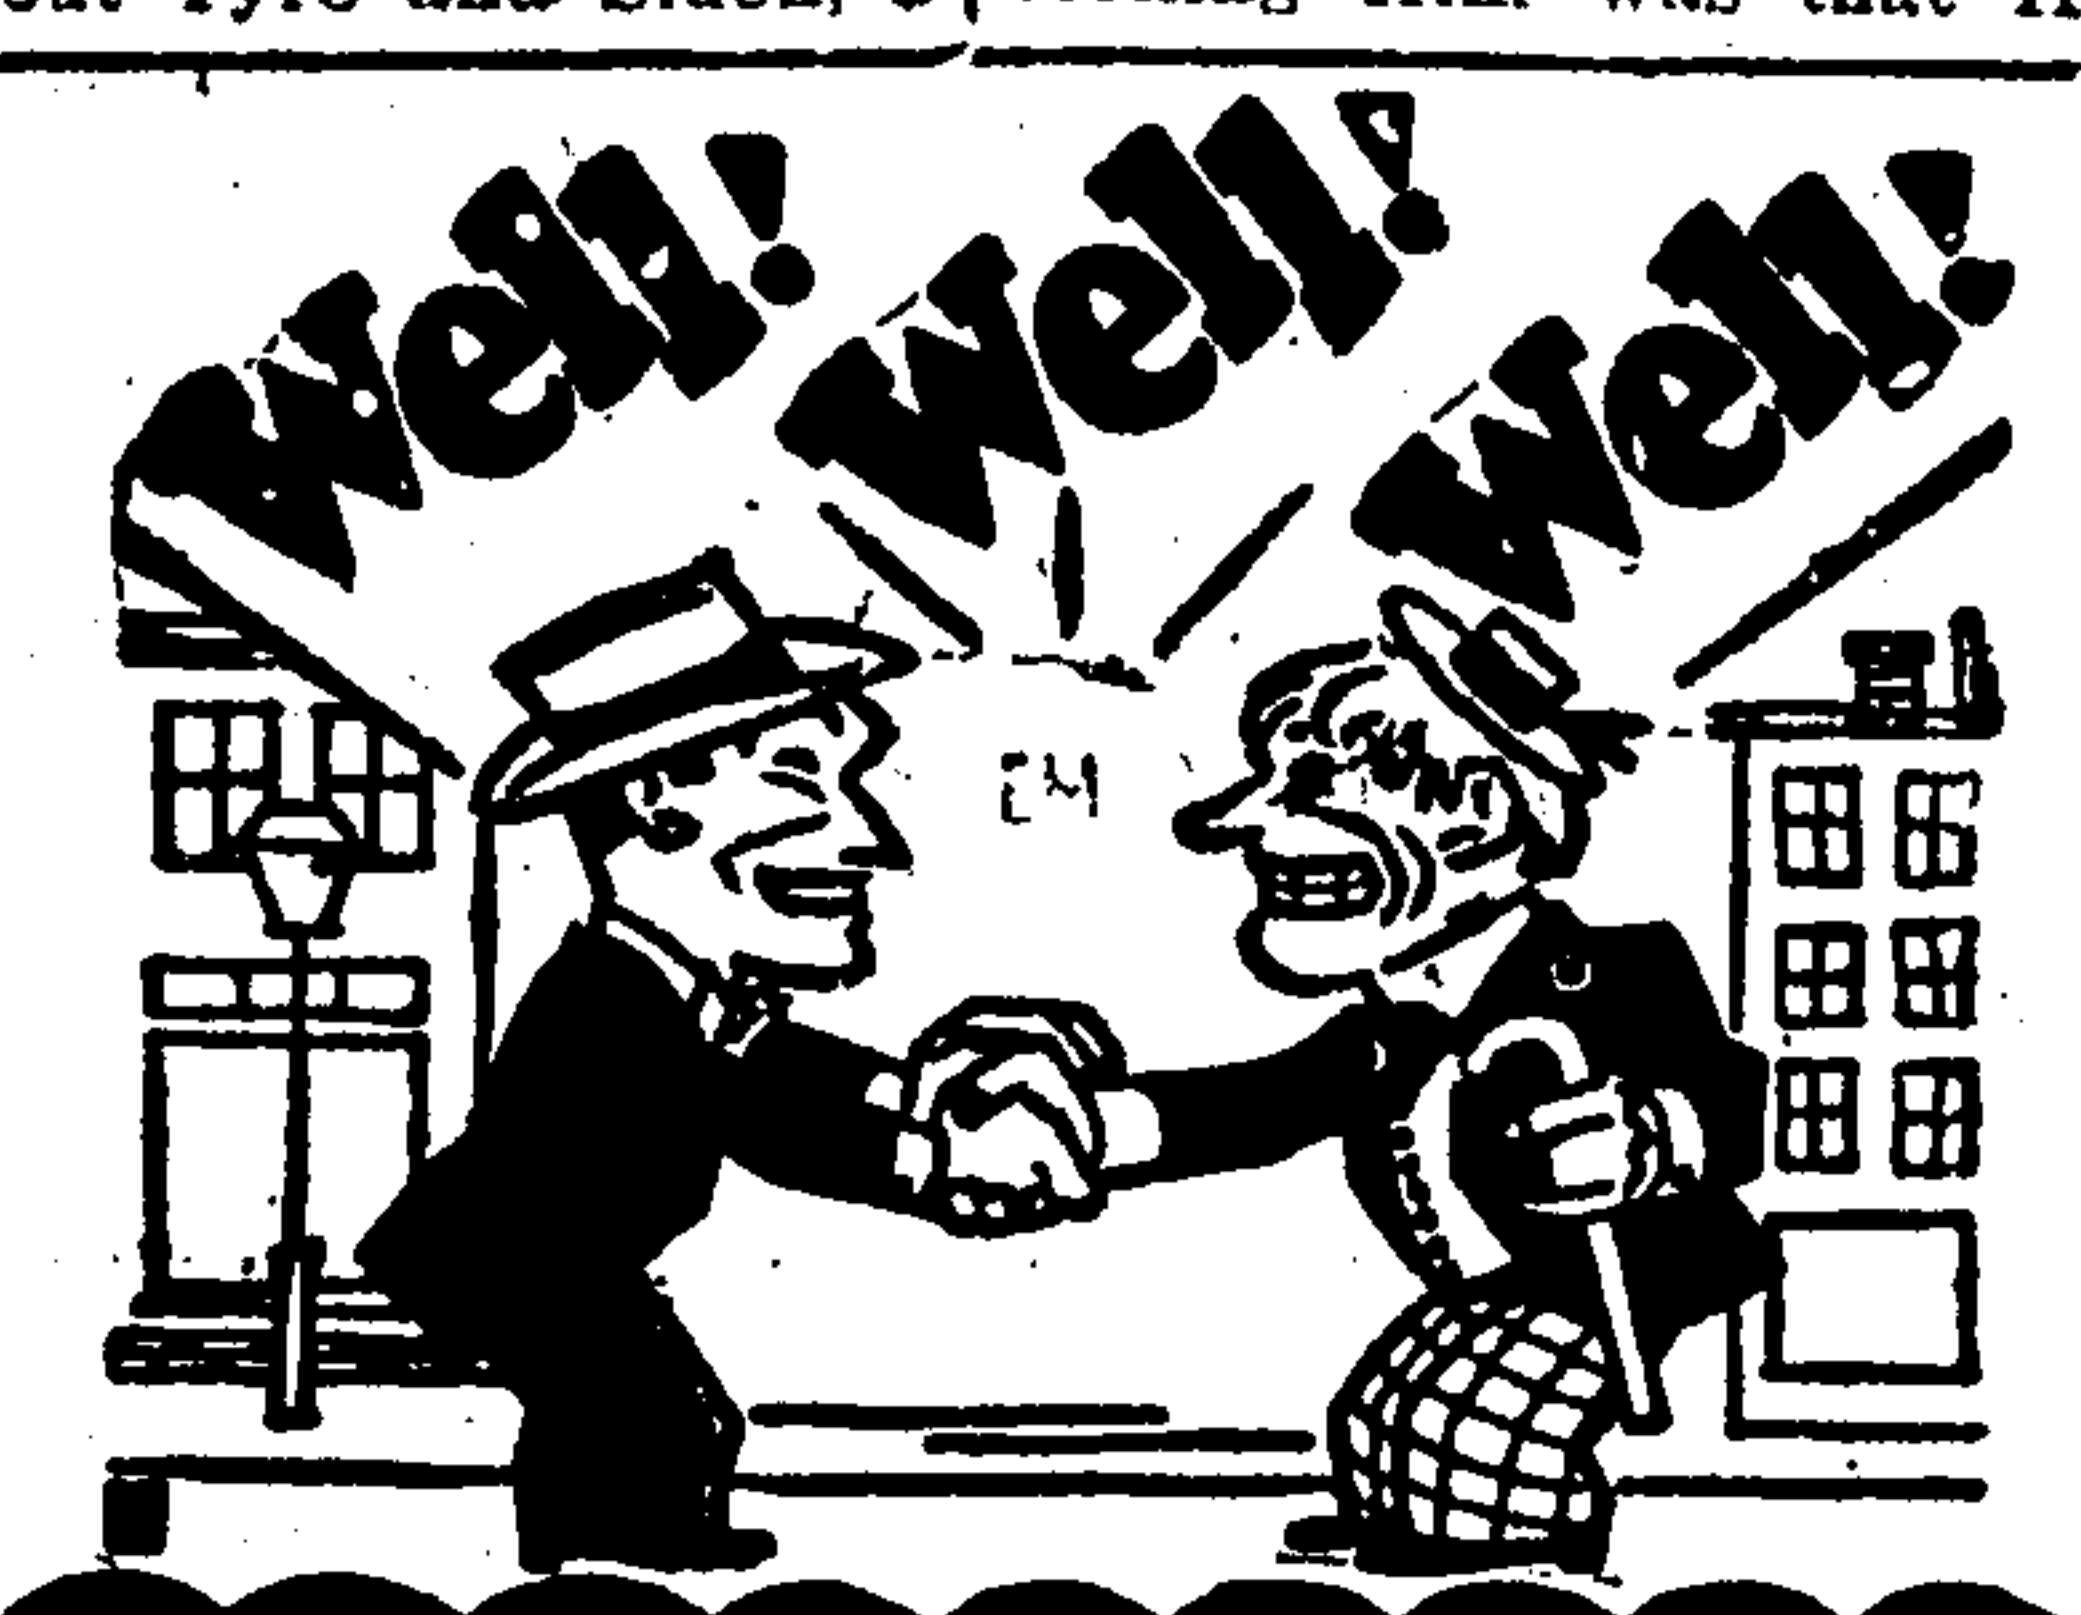

Geneva is a word often in the great multitude, when they heard what great things He did, came unto Him." That is to say, every part of the land given to the Jews, and foreign countries as well, sent representatives to learn of Jesus. From the hills of Hermon to the sands of Shai; from the rich uplands of Trans-Jordan to the proud Phoenician seaports of Tyre and Sidon, the multitudes travelled. There were no trains or automobiles to carry the seekers swiftly to the shores of the lake. They went afoot, or on the backs of animals, at a cost of many days. The phenomenon merits all the adjectives of wonder that our vivid historian, Mark, applies to it.

We turn to Lindbergh, and the ovations accorded him; to President Wilson, touring Europe during the Armistice; to Zagloul Pasha, returning from exile to a glorious Egypt; or to Napoleon, back from Elba, to find a parallel for this amazing demonstration accorded to Jesus, the healer. Small wonder that Christendom regards the shores of Galilee as "holy ground." There Jesus expressed more of His character and message and mission than anywhere else.

Hymn Needs and the Helper. A pupil nurse, off duty from the hospital for a day, remarked to her companion, "It seems strange to see so many persons with all their legs and arms and eyes, and with nothing the matter with them. I have been living in a world where everybody is maimed or ailing." Conversely, the whole and healthy world is prone to forget the great host of injured and sick and suffering who are all about us. "In every sermon be sure to have some word of comfort for the ill, the sorrowing and the discouraged; for they are always present," was one old preacher's wise advice to a younger.

We do not read about them often in the news columns; they have no organization or publication; their heroisms are unheralded; yet in the shadow of our everyday are a great host of invalids and unsuspected sufferers, in bondage to weakness and pain. There are enough sick people to make a nation by themselves. Yet the world gives them scant heed. Even yet, as of old, Jesus is their most sympathetic friend.

One of the beautiful facts about Jesus is that he had such compassion for suffering that He won the title of "the Great Physician." He said little about national or international affairs, or about the other "great questions" in which we delight; but He was full of comfort for the bereaved, the lame, the blind, the suffering, the poor. This is almost the first fact about the ministry of Christ: His recognition of the prevalence of human need. To cure this condition the Son of God poured out His life. The good news that ran swiftly beyond the borders of Jewry concerning Him was that He was a helper and healer of individual men and women. So "the common people heard Him gladly."

Are We On The Wrong Track?
Disturbing thoughts enter our minds as we read Maark's vivid portrayal of tremendous popularity of Jesus the healer. Are we on the right track in stressing the mission of the Church as an arbiter in national and international and social affairs; as an organized force in politico-moral issues; and a proud and powerful counsellor of governments? Is it not possible that we have too many national commissions and committees and other organizations? Would not the work of God be better done if the Church continued to put the emphasis where Jesus placed it—upon the healing of hurt hearts and bodies, upon the binding up of wounds, upon the lifting up of downcast spirits, upon the comforting of those who mourn, and upon the succor of the needy? Is not the mission of comforting the weak even greater than that of counselling the strong? After all, who are the strong, that they do not at times need the comfort and grace of Christ, and the casting out of evil spirits? To follow Jesus means lowly service of humble needs.

Galilee is a little lake to have bulked so large in human life and history. It is only twelve miles long and seven miles wide; and its surface is nearly 700 feet below sea level; for it lies in that great rift in the earth's crust which extends from the Lebanon Mountains to the Red Sea. Once the great highway of trade and empire swept along the northern end of the lake; and cities and towns dotted its banks. Now there is only one city, Tiberias, and few villages.

Greates of the lake cities of our Lord's day was Capernaum, His manhood home; and near it was Bethsaida. Was it because he pronounced "woe!" upon them that these cities have vanished so completely that not even their sites are surely known? The ruins of Tell Hum, on the northern end of the lake, are believed by many to have been Capernaum; but others doubt it. As I have wandered, by land and by water, along that history-crowded northern shore of Galilee, considering the probability of site, and the natural conditions, such as water supply, that determine the location of cities, I have come to agree with those who would locate Capernaum on the Plain of Gennesaret, up the northeastern corner of the lake; and who identify Bethsaida with the "tell," or ruins, on the plain across the Jordan, on the northeastern shore of the lake. (The Jordan River, it is remembered, both flows into and out of the Lake of Galilee.)

This is Holy Ground. Even the delicate, spiral shells which by millions line the beach of the northern edge of the lake have a peculiar interest; because these are the shores that the feet of Jesus once trod familiarly. This particular section of the best-loved bit of water on earth was the scene of his marvelous ministry. To it He drew people from far-off regions.

Because few of us are familiar with Bible geography, we miss the significance of Lesson record that "a great multitude from Galilee followed Him, and from Judea and from Jerusalem, and from Idumaea and from beyond Jordan; and they about Tyre and Sidon, a along the highways and in the villages and cities. Even the border of His cloak was clutched for healing; and His shadow was a blessing."

UNIDENTIFIED MAN
KILLED IN BATTLE
WITH SHERIFF LONGBy Associated Press.
Marietta, Okla., Jan. 25.

An unidentified bank robber was killed and Sheriff S. C. Long of Love county was seriously wounded in a gun battle shortly after noon today, following the robbery of the Love County National Bank here.

One or two bandits escaped with loot estimated at between $5,000 and $6,000.

The outlaw's death was the second fatality today among Oklahoma bank robbers. T. N. Rickard died at Cordell early this morning from wounds received yesterday in a robbery at Besse, in which Ben Klehn, bank cashier, was killed.

Four customers and two officials were in the bank when the two robbers entered and ordered them to throw up their hands. One of the robbers, who was masked, then went into the cage where J. D. Davis, cashier, was working, and scooped up all the money in the till, while the other stood guard near the door.

Employees in a drug store across the street from the bank had seen the two men, both with guns drawn, enter the bank, and called Sheriff Long, who immediately went to the bank. When he walked in the door, he ordered the robbers to raise their hands, and the man in the cashier's cage fired at him.

Sheriff Long fired back at both robbers several times before he fell to the floor, and the robber who had been standing near the door was fatally shot.

The other bandit fled through a side door of the bank, speeding away in an automobile. A group of citizens immediately set out in

THREE WOODBINE
TESTS BEING MADE IN NAVARRO COUNTY

With three Woodbine tests and one shallow test now drilling, oil activities in the Corsicana sector of the East Central Texas area have increased considerably since the first of the year.

Steady progress is being made on the Alexander-Lyles et al Humphreys No. 1, southeast of Angus. This well was spudded in Friday and is being drilled by Wheelock and Collins. The test was down about 1500 feet Wednesday.

The well is located on the F. F. Humphreys farm about three miles southeast of Angus; it is about 450 yards east of the southeast corner of the John McNeal survey.

Hard chalk was still engaging the attention of the drillers on the DeArmen Brothers Murphy No. 1 about twelve miles southwest of Corsicana on the Richland road. A new set of cones was installed in the rock-bit Tuesday night and steady progress was being made with the bit around 1847 Wednesday morning.

Georgia Lady Could Not Sleep Nights, But After Taking Cardui She Was "Like a Different Person."

Comer, Ga.—Mrs. C. H. Smith, of this place, related the following interesting experience:

"I was weak and nervous and run down. I couldn't sleep at night. I felt tired and not in condition to do my work. I had Cardui recommended to me, but always thought I could outdo most sickness, but this was one time I needed help. I was so weak I could hardly lift my hand.

"I can't express how bad I felt. I know I improved after taking Cardui. I was like a different person. I was built up and was stronger and better than in a long time.

"I have a young daughter who had the 'flu,' and after she got up she would once in a while have such severe cramping spells, just suffer terribly. I knew there was a weakness and hoping Cardui would reach this time. I had her take it, and the first bottle helped her so much she was able to leave it off and does not have this trouble now."

TRIS SPEAKER IS RELEASED FROM HIS SENATORS CONTRACTBy Associated Press.
Tampa, Fla., Jan. 25.—Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Americans, today announced the unconditional release of Tris Speaker, center fielder, effective Feb. 1. The announcement was made after Speaker had failed to comply with Griffith's demand to voluntarily reduce his own salary.

Griffith refused to comment on the release other than to say that he was endeavoring to build up a ball club with young material.

Speaker had been with the Washington club for one year, but in organized baseball for 20 seasons.

Griffith had told him he must voluntarily reduce his present salary if he expected to receive a contract for this season. Speaker retaliated with a statement while en route from his home in Texas to Georgetown, S. C., that it was not his place to approach the club owner with such a proposition, and he is understood to be ready to negotiate with other clubs.

Griffith refused to reveal Speaker's present salary, saying that it is well known "some people might think it was excessive." It is understood, however, to be between $40,000 and $60,000.

He previously had said, "I have plenty of material to take Speaker's place," and today he said, "there is no unfriendliness and that he was sure the settlement would be amicable."

"Walter Johnson's decision to retire from major league baseball last season led the Washington club officials to decide upon the policy of a younger ball club," Griffith added. "The baseball club of Washington demands a younger club and we are going to provide that."

Georgetown, S. C., Jan. 25.—Tris Speaker, veteran American League outfielder, today had received no word from Clark Griffith, president of the Washington American League team, and had no comment to make on announcement that he had been unconditionally released.

FRANK JACKSON, MEMBER OF SAM BASS GANG, ALLEGED TO BE SEEKING TRIAL IMMUNITYBy Associated Press.
Alamogordo, N. M., Jan. 25.—Frank Jackson, 78, of the Sam Bass gang of Texas, who for 50 years has been living in New Mexico under an assumed name, wants to obtain immunity and return to Texas. Jackson has contended that he merely was present at the fight, that he was a witness only and that the shots were fired by others. The man who killed the man Jackson is alleged to have shot was killed in the fight, Jackson contends.

Sam Bass led a band of train and stage robbers. Shortly before Bass was killed in an attempted robbery of a bank at Round Rock, he employed Frank Jackson, then a boy of 18, to act as his bodyguard, with the promise, Jackson's friends claim, that he would reform and the two would start a cattle ranch in South America.

At Round Rock Bass was wounded and Jackson, under fire of Texas Rangers, put Bass before him on his horse and carried him two miles out of town where the outlaw died. Accounts of the incident say Jackson since has been a fugitive.

Mr. Rhodes said that Jackson, married, has a large family and now is held in high regard by his neighbors, who know him by another name. He does not want to return to Texas, if he must face trial, Mr. Rhodes said, and he and other New Mexicans who know Jackson are communicating with Texas officials in an effort to obtain immunity for him.

By Associated Press.
Georgetown, Texas, Jan. 25.—Overtures to have dismissed the indictment now 48 years old, charging Frank Jackson, bodyguard for Sam Bass, with murder date back seven or eight years and so far have been without success.

Williamson county officers have declined to act, although only one witness to the fight in which Bass was wounded fatally and out of which the charges grew now is living. That witness is in Hutto.

Speaker said that he was not at this time considering any other offers.

THREE HOUSES ARE ATTACKED BY FIRE MONDAY AFTERNOON

Three houses were destroyed or damaged in the residence section of Corsicana Monday afternoon within an hour's time, shortly after 3 o'clock, with damage and loss estimated by Fire Chief Elmer Keith at $2900 with insurance totaling $11,050.

The first alarm was turned in from 209 North Nineteenth street, where fire of unknown origin destroyed the home of Mrs. Isabel Patton. Insurance on the house and furnishings amounted to $1250 with an estimated loss of $1500.

Flying sparks set fire to the house of R. T. Puryear adjoining the Patton home and it was considerably damaged by fire and water. The loss was estimated at $1000 with $3000 insurance on the house and $800 on the furnishings.

While firemen were engaged with the two blazes on North Nineteenth street, a second was turned in from 610 West Second avenue. Fire of unknown origin had started a blaze in the attic and roof that did small damage before it was extinguished by chemicals and water.

The house belonged to C. L. Knob and was occupied by M. A. Spurgeon. The house was insured for $6000 with a loss estimated at $500. Spurgeon's furniture was damaged about $50, and was fully covered by insurance.

OBITUARY.

In loving memory of George Ross Baker, who died at the home of his son, W. B. Baker on South Seventeenth street, Jan. 12, 1928, at 2 p. m.

Mr. Baker was born at Evansville, Ind., in 1841, and was married to Miss Sallie Winston Ditch Sept. 26, 1878, and to this union seven children were born, three daughters and four sons. The six children surviving, all being at the death, died except one son in Arizona.

MRS. L. SMALLING.

For County Judge.

I take this method of announcing to the voters of Navarro county that I am a candidate for the office of county judge.

I am sure you are not interested in my past accomplishments and I am not going to give you a biography of my life; suffice to say that my father, grandfather and two uncles, Captain Clint Fouty and M. Fouty, came to the Republic of Texas in 1844, and settled in what is now Navarro county.

I have resided in Navarro county all my life, my coming in and going out has been observed by every one, and I have tried to live and conduct myself so as to merit the confidence and esteem of all good men and women.

I am asking you for an office that means a great deal to the voters and tax payers of the county, as it has to do largely with the handling of the people's money, and I believe, if given the opportunity, I can make you an acceptable county judge, and if so favored, I promise you the best service I am capable of rendering.

Thanking you for your support and influence in the coming campaign, I am, sincerely, CLAY NASH.

COUNTY-WIDE RALLY OF BAPTISTS HEARD BAYLOR PRESIDENT

tion, and the work of the church organizer in distributing the individual responsibility for success.

Dr. S. P. Brooks presented the general outline of the campaign. Discussing the voluntary system of giving in the church, the speaker asserted that the success of this method depended on the intelligence of the givers. He traced the rise of denominational schools along the Atlantic seaboard in the early days of America as the need for ministers arose; the process was continued until it has reached its present extent. As a school in one section becomes well founded, its missionaries and graduates advance and build new outposts.

Other Campaigns Discussed.

He discussed the "Seventy-five Million Campaign," which was launched in 1919, and the effect that campaign had upon both foreign and home missionary projects. He insisted that the Conquest Campaign should be carried on successfully in order that the various projects should not be crippled and that the now dobridden institutions should be given an opportunity for greater service.

Following Dr. Brooks' address, luncheon was served to the visitors by the ladies of the First Baptist church.

In the afternoon, G. S. Hopkins, State Sunday School Secretary, addressed a group on the work to be done by the B. Y. P. U. and Sunday School, while Mrs. T. C. Jester of Houston addressed a group on the work of the Woman's Missionary Union.

The pastors took part in the discussion group, led by Dr. Brooks on the problems of the campaign.

The meeting adjourned late Tuesday afternoon after a final address by Dr. Brooks.

OKLAHOMA BANK CASHIER KILLED BY TWO BANDITS

By Associated Press.

Clinton, Okla., Jan. 24.—An airplane was pressed into use today in the search for two bank robbers who killed Ben Kiehn, cashier of the Bessie State Bank at Bessie today, and robbed the bank of approximately $1,000.

Kiehn was shot and almost instantly killed when he opened fire from the vault, into which he had been forced by the intruders. The airplane aided the efforts of posses from Washita and Custer counties who took the trail soon after the bandits fled from Bessie.

Kiehn was a World War veteran and held the Croix de Guerre.

The robbers forced Kiehn, Miss Georgia Stahr, the bookkeeper, and Henry Dyck, a customer, to lie on the floor while they looted the cash drawers.

Later they shoved Kiehn and Dyck into the vault leaving an opening in the door about an inch wide. Kiehn fired three shots through the crack with a large revolver.

The bandits responded with one shot, which struck the door and glanced, struck Kiehn in the head, killing him almost instantly.

Active pallbearers will be W. G. Robar, Henry Robbins, Boyce Martin, Pat Loggins, W. P. McCammon, Harry Johnson, Roy Love and Nat Pinkston.

END OF RATLIFF TRIAL IS DRAWING NEAR AT EASTLAND

SELECTION OF JURY TO TRY HICKMAN IS STARTED THURSDAY

By Associated Press.

Eastland, Texas, Jan. 25.—The trial of Marshall Ratliff, charged with robbery of the First National Bank of Cisco on Dec. 23, will rest with a jury today without defense testimony.

Closing one of the most spectacular trials in the history of Ninety-first District court, the State today rested its case after having offered half a hundred witnesses who sought to prove that Ratliff, garbed as Santa Claus, participated in the robbery of the Cisco bank after which G. E. Bedford, Cisco police chief; G. W. Carmichael, police officer, and L. E. Davis, bandit, were mortally wounded in a gun battle just outside the bank.

When the State rested its case at 10:30 o'clock Defense Attorney J. Lee Cearley asked Judge G. L. Davenport to require the State to furnish the defense with a transcript of the testimony given against Ratliff before the grand jury.

W. W. Hair, special prosecutor, said that the law does not require the State to do this and the State in this case did not care to comply with the defense request. At this point Cearley abruptly announced that the defense rested and Judge Davenport recessed court until 2 o'clock to prepare his charge to the jury.

Arguments in the case probably will consume one day, although the time had not been set.

Only three witnesses testified Wednesday. Milton P. Connely, high school student of Cisco, testified that he found a Boston band bag in a creek bottom two miles from where the bandit car was abandoned on the day of the hold-up. Connely said the bag contained two pairs of rubber gloves, cotton bandages and other things.

Cy Bradford, Eastland county deputy sheriff, testified that Ratliff was arrested at 7:50 a. m. Dec. 27, near South Bend.

W. M. Miller of the Cisco police department corroborated the testimony of Connely as to the contents of the bandbag.

Taking of testimony in the case began Monday morning, after a week consumed in a struggle between State and defense over venue and continuance motions and in the selection of a jury. Ratliff pleaded not guilty to the charge of robbing the bank.

In addition to the charge of robbery by firearms of the bank, Ratliff is charged with robbery by firearms of Ellis Harris, whose automobile was seized in Cisco immediately after the holdup when the big blue sedan in which the robbers were fleeing developed a flat tire.

Ratliff is also under two murder indictments in connection with the killing of G. E. Bedford, Cisco police chief, and G. W. Carmichael, police officer, fatally wounded in gun fight at the bank.

Identical indictments were returned against Henry Helms and Robert Hill, held in the Eastland county jail awaiting trial. Already arraigned on the bank robbery charge, Hill has pleaded guilty.

Eastland, Texas, Jan. 25.—The end of the trial of Marshall Ratliff charged with robbery by five armed men in connection with the holdup of the First National Bank of Cisco, loomed near as Ninety-first District Court opened today and the state indicated it would rest its case shortly. J. Lee Cearley and J. K. Baker, defense counsel, had about fourteen witnesses ready but it seemed unlikely that any one of them would remain on the stand long.

It was not known if the defendant would testify in his own behalf. State's witness yesterday identified Ratliff as the man who masqueraded as Santa Claus in the robbery.

The State's witness was Marion Herren, 15, daughter of Mrs. Francis Herren who lives near Wichita Falls. She testified that her mother made the Santa Claus suit and that she fitted the suit on Ratliff the night before the bank robbery. She testified that her testimony was given for the state in the hope that her mother might be shown mercy. Her mother is charged with being an accessory after the fact.

Mrs. Leon Harkey, a daughter of Mrs. Sam Fox and a niece by sanguinity of Louis Davis, the dead bandit, and by marriage of Henry Helms, told of the visit of the three fugitives at the Fox home on the Lash lease early Christmas morning.

Although minor testimony was introduced before the close of the afternoon session, County Attorney Sparks had put the finishing touches to the picture of the whole transaction, placed before the jurors in the testimony of the witnesses, when Doctor R. C. Ferguson, County Health officer, had left the stand. He identified Marshall Ratliff as the man he examined in the Eastland county jail on Thursday, December 28. He testified that he was wounded on the chin, that buckshot had gone through his lip, and lodged in his left jaw and that he was wounded in each of his two legs.

SENATE COMMITTEE LEARNED SINCLAIR FURNISHED MONEY

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 25.—M. T. Everhart told the Senate oil committee today that when Harry F. Sinclair turned over $233,000 in Liberty bonds to him and his father-in-law, Albert B. Fall, in exchange for an interest in the Fall-Everhart ranch holdings, the old man took in return no tangible evidence of his newly acquired interest in the property.

Standard Oil Man Wanted.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Counsel for Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, now in Havana, that Stewart was wanted here immediately for questioning.

that the ranch deal was "open and above board," and that there was nothing to conceal about it. Fall said the transaction grew out of western ranch, and Everhart touched on the same theme in his testimony.

The money paid to Fall by Sinclair, said, was in payment for a third interest in Fall's properties. Testimony at the recent Fall-Sinclair trial was that the bonds were a part of the profits of the Continental Trading Company of Canada, which contracted to buy oil from the late A. E. Humphreys of Denver, and re-sell it to the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, the Sinclair crude oil purchasing company, the Midwest Refining Company, and the Prairie Oil and Gas Company. The contract, it has been testified, was guaranteed by Sinclair, Henry M. Blackmer, former chairman of the board of the Midwest; James E. O'Neill, former president of the Prairie Company, and Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Indiana Standard.

Profits of the now extinct Canadian corporation are alleged to have totaled $3,000,000 and the Senate committee's new investigation is aimed to determine what became of the remainder of that money. Several former directors of political campaigns may be called to testify whether any of it found its way to their coffers, as has been rumored.

Replying to Senator Walsh of Montana, Everhart said that if Sinclair should make claim to the stock in the Tres Rios Cattle and Land Company, which was set aside for him, he would have to rely upon the word of the witness and Fall that he had bought the stocks.

"I tendered the certificates to him, but he did not accept them," Everhart said.

Everhart, who told yesterday how he handled the bonds that changed hands in this deal, was recalled today after the committee had notified counsel for Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, now in Havana, that Stewart was wanted here immediately for questioning.

Governor Dan Moody, who won the election in a race between two women and several men, has not announced whether he will be a candidate for re-election. His friends hope to see him nominated for vice president at the democratic national convention in Houston.

An intensive speaking campaign is planned by Mrs. Cunningham, Miss Ruby Neale Long of Brownwood has charge of Mrs. Cunningham's headquarters and speaking itinerary.

Pamphlets instead of speeches will be Mrs. Wilman's reliance in her race for governor.

Both of the women have been in public life for several years. Mrs. Cunningham led the fight in Texas for ratification of the suffrage amendment to the United States constitution. She was a delegate to the democratic national convention at San Francisco in 1920. She became executive secretary of the National League of Women Voters in 1922 and its second vice president in 1924. Until recently she was in Washington as the personal representative of Emily Newell Blair, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee.

Mrs. Minnie F. Cunningham of Huntsville is a candidate for the democratic nomination for United States senator, while Mrs. Edith E. Wilman of Dallas seeks the nomination of the same party for governor. Mrs. Cunningham will oppose Senator Earle B. Mayfield at the first primary in July. Mrs. Wilman ran for governor in 1926 and shared defeat with Mrs. Ferguson.
